Actons News - We're on the Move!

The start of 2007 heralds an exciting time for Nottingham Solicitors Actons. After having its main office based in King Street for over 60 years, the firm has now relocated to new open plan premises on Regent Street in the heart of the City's commercial district.

The new premises allow Actons to consolidate all of its services to both commercial and private clients under one roof in close proximity to the firm's existing two offices on Regent Street.

Actons has developed a strong team spirit and total commitment to working closely with businesses and individuals and this will certainly be strengthened by the move to new open plan offices.

John Britten, Director said: "The move represents a significant investment for the firm and is evidence of our commitment to continue to provide our clients with the level of service that they have come to expect and appreciate. Indeed it is anticipated that our clients will receive even better service as a result of the advantages that will be gained from having all of our expertise in a single building.

There is a degree of sadness in leaving our King Street offices behind, but the new premises are, being a listed building, of similar character and have the advantage of the most up to date technology following a total refit programme that has been undertaken since their acquisition. The result has exceeded our expectations and we are grateful to Jade Construction and their contractors for their considerable assistance in carrying out the work. The directors and staff of the firm are delighted with the new offices and see the move as a further step in making the firm one of the region's premier providers of legal services"
