

■ Adrian Forster, Director

Company Commercial & Commercial Property Departments

Adrian's interest has always been in the entrepreneurial aspects of business life and at an early stage in his career his focus turned to company and commercial law and commercial property: fields in which he has practiced for over 25 years.

Adrian is an imaginative and lateral thinker delivering innovative and flexible solutions in a wide range of situations. He has built a strong rapport with owner managed businesses with whom he has built a loyal client base.

Adrian and his team have been consistently praised in The Legal 500 Guide to the Legal Profession for some years, where his reputation as "commercially minded" is noted and he has been "praised for his commercial nous". He is described as "a leading player in the owner-managed market".

Examples of sectors in which he has been involved in include leisure, professional partnerships, service industries, high tech and manufacturing, retailing, and building and construction. He has also been instructed by Banks, Local Authorities and investors.

Frequently he will become involved at a very early stage working alongside the client's team to assist in the structuring of a transaction right through to the project's conclusion.

Adrian has retained his strong interest in commercial property law and as part of the commercial property team continues to execute a wide range of commercial property transactions delivering tailored solutions for his clients.

Adrian is an active member of the LawNet Company Commercial Group Steering Committee.
